Food Science

Explore the industry

Complete the "Food Science and Technology" e-learning course (elearning.grownextgen.org) to improve your background knowledge about this topic. This course walks you through the basics of the food industry, including food labels, soybean use in food products, and the impact of food on our health. After completing the e-learning course, answer the following questions:

1. Record five things you learned from the e-learning course:

2. In what ways has the growing population of the world impacted the Food Science industry?

3. What would you tell a consumer about food products after completing the e-learning course?

4. Did your opinion change about food science/food products completing the e-learning course? Why or why not? Be specific.
