STEM careers in agriculture

Which career might be for you?

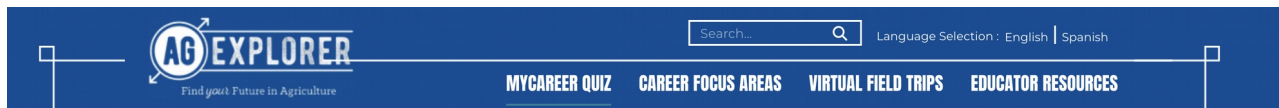

Background

Now that you have explored STEM in agriculture through the e-learning module and you have investigated innovations in agriculture, it is time for you to think about possible career paths in an agriculture related industry. Have you been intrigued with any of the innovations you have heard about? Does investigating and trying to resolve problems interest you? How about collecting or working with data? Human resources, marketing, communication, finance and law all have connections to agriculture. There are careers that are mainly outdoors as well as others that are indoors. Remember this is an exploration. Knowing more can help you make better choices in the future!
